a gap-shaped interspace being formed between said at least one basic panel and said at least one covering panel, the covering panel being detachably mounted ~~by detachable fasteners extending along at least one of the edges of said at least one covering panel~~ for at least partial removal from the tent and for allowing air flow through said interspace, the detachable covering panels including at least a completely removably roof panel, and tensioning means for tensioning the roof panel.

Claims 22-25 (Cancelled)
